Program Description

SpreadEdge Energy Seasonal Spread Program is designed to provide exposure to a broad base of U.S. energy futures markets. Markets generally traded include (but are not limited to) crude oil, Brent crude, natural gas, gasoline, heating oil, gas oil, copper, and euro dollar.

The Program seeks to achieve significant profits across a broad variety of market conditions (both bull and bear markets, and inflationary and deflationary environments). To achieve their objectives, the Programs involve speculating in futures contracts (or options thereon) available for trading on any U.S. exchange. Trades are typically seasonal calendar spreads or intra-commodity spreads (such as Brent Crude vs. WTI Crude). Inter-commodity spreads are not generally used. Options are normally not used but could be used in extreme market conditions for risk management purposes.

Effective risk management, such as the use of stop-loss orders, is a crucial aspect of the Programs, and the Advisor will at times employ risk management techniques in its discretion.
